Center for Companies That Care Recognizes Socially Responsible Employers on National Honor Roll

Sustainable Practices Pay Dividends Now and for Generations to Come

CHICAGO (March 17, 2016) – Center for Companies That Care (www.companies-that-care.org) announces its 14th Honor Roll, comprised of US-headquartered employers in 12 industries. Each has admirable workplace practices and ongoing community involvement that help individuals, families, and communities thrive. The Honor Roll includes privately held and publicly traded organizations, as well as not-for-profit employers.

"It's impossible to fully quantify the impact of these exceptional employers," said Marci Koblenz, Center for Companies That Care's co-founder and president. "Their leadership consistently take into account the human toll when making business decisions. Their organizational cultures are rooted in helping others – helping employees succeed by developing them, providing fair compensation and benefits, respecting and appreciating their individuality, and giving them opportunities to serve communities, which, in turn, pays dividends for generations to come."

The 2016 Honor Roll recognizes:

Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.

CBRE

College of American Pathologists

Convergint Technologies

Delta Air Lines, Inc.

Sysmex America, Inc.

Enterprise Fleet Management, Inc.

LaSalle Network

Level 10, LLC

NuStar Energy L.P.

Ryan, LLC

WellStar Health System
